

"Almost everything about your wedding day is ephemeral. Invitations, once posted are gone. Cake is eaten, flowers wilt, and bands eventually pack up and go home. After all is said and done, the only wedding professional delivering a product that is designed with the future in mind is your photographer."

It all starts with you. What kind of photographs do you want on your wedding day?

Determine your Personal Style:

1. Will the ceremony be in a traditional church?
2. Will there be a Bridal Party?
3. Are you wearing a wedding gown with a train? Headpiece? Veil?
4. Do you plan on being walked down the aisle by your Dad, both parents, or are you going alone?
5. How close knit is your family? Do you want a separate photograph with every one of your siblings?
Are your grandparents a big part of your life?
6. Do you plan on arranging the day so that there is a specific time allotted for posed formal portraits?
7. At the reception, do you want the DJ to announce your grand entrance, the first dance, the toast, and the cake-cutting?
8. Do you want a special announcement when you dance with your dad or when you husband dances with his mom?
9. Do you want to throw your bouquet? Do you want the groom to toss your garter to the eligible bachelors?
10. Do you want the garter-catcher to put the garter on the bouquet-catcher?

There may be an item you wear on your wedding day that has special meaning to you. If so, make sure your photographer captures it. Don't assume your photographer will know that you're wearing knee highs and platform sneakers if they're hidden under acres of wedding gown!

FOR BOTH OF YOU:

GET A MANICURE!! There is nothing that can ruin a close-up or a couple's hands sporting shiny, new wedding rings than dirty fingernails and chewed up cuticles. Likewise, a groom lifting his bride's chin with his fingertip in preparation to kiss her is the type of photograph you see in greeting cards, but it can quickly lose its appeal if his or your fingernails are unkempt.

If you and your husband plan a special moment together, make sure to let your photographer in on the surprise so he can capture the action.
