

Question: Why should I chose a DJ instead of a band?

Answer: There are several differences between a band and a DJ. A DJ can play a wide variety of music and a band, most times, need to stick to their rehearsed music. A DJ can play music all through your event without taking a break so you have continuous music and endless possibilities of party memories.

Question: What is the basic block of time for a typical reception/party?

Answer: This varies. Depending on the type of event the hours may be different. A typical block of time is 4 hours.

Question: Will you be able to play longer than the initial block of time if I want to continue my party?

Answer: Yes. When your event is booked, I do not book another event for that day.

Question: Do you accept requests?

Answer: Absolutely. By being a digital DJ, I am able to bring a vast variety and amount of music with me.

Question: Can you provide music for my ceremony?

Answer: Yes. I have a second setup that can be provided. By providing a separate setup for the ceremony, it allows me to be able to play music at the ceremony site as well as the reception site when ready to move to the next part of your event without having to re-setup to start the music for the reception. A wireless microphone can also be provided.

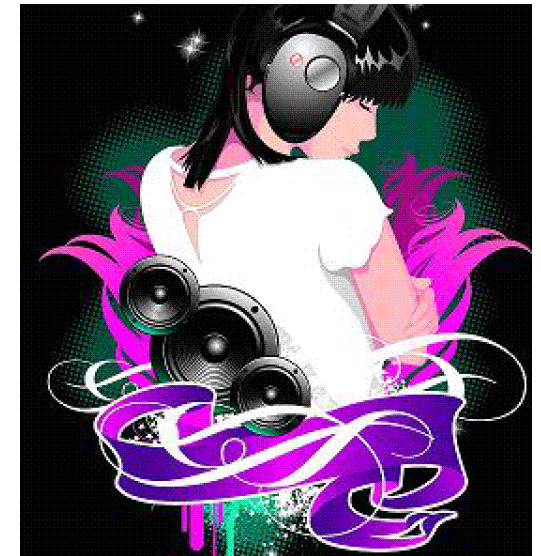

Question: Can you provide lighting?

Answer: Yes. Lighting is included. Lighting is provided for the dance floor to make your party time more exciting. You can request to not have lighting is you prefer.
