The Glendale Lyceum

The Glendale Lyceum was built in 1892 with the support of Cincinnati's famous Procter family. It was founded as a place to gather and discuss current events, read the latest books, and entertain and socialize with family and friends. Since its founding, it has continued to provide cultural, social, and sporting events for generations of Glendalians.

The facility has also become a popular location for weddings, receptions, and other social events due to its quiet elegance and character. Its stately presence, historic charm, and comfortable atmosphere are evident as soon as you enter the front doors.

Our 275-person entertaining space is warm, inviting, and elegant and provides ample room for guest seating and a dance floor in the Ballroom. Buffet and cocktail tables can be set in the Sun Room, which also holds the full service bar. The Tea Room offers an inviting stone fireplace, or guests can settle in the Library with its roaring fireplace, historic book collection, and stately atmosphere. In spring, summer, and fall, the covered Patio overlooking the Lyceum's clay tennis courts is a relaxing gathering space. The full service kitchen can accommodate any of our Required Caterers. We also offer a beautiful, private Bridal Suite on the second floor and a Gentlemen's Pub on the lower level.
