MISSION DISCOVERY

Prepare for your biggest undercover mission yet: Mission Discovery. Learn codes to crack secret messages or hide your identity with this one of a kind secret agent birthday party!

Recommended for Young Agents: Mission Control will teach party goers how to send messages back and forth using their own simple code. Agents will leave equipped with personal decoders to practice for their mission!

Recommended for Junior Agents: Mission Control arms party goers with information to create their initials in American Standard Code. Agents will leave with their very own key-chain to secretly display their identity to fellow coders.

SLIME SCIENTIST

An explosion in the lab has made our head scientist go mad- for slime! Have a blast in the wonderful world of goop and slime with this hands on birthday experience.

Recommended for Young Mad Scientists: The Head Scientist will demonstrate how quick, easy, and colorful slime can be with a slime activity. Scientists will create their own to take home and experiment with!

Recommended for Junior Mad Scientists: The Head Scientist needs help generating more slime! Each scientist will receive their own slime kit, complete with glitter and decorating essentials, to make their personal clear slime concoctions.

CSI: DISCOVERY CENTER

There's been a theft at the Discovery Center, and we need your help to solve it! Bring your best detectives and explore the science behind catching a thief in this private-eye party!

Recommended for Young Detectives: The Force Chief will guide detectives through the fingerprinting process and even teach them to identify their own. Detectives will decipher fingerprints from evidence and leave with a fingerprinting badge of their own.

Recommended for Junior Detectives: The Force Chief will brief detectives on the basics of DNA rules and traits, and they will use the information to help identify the criminal. Members of the force will work to build the thief's DNA and once the case is solved detectives will leave with a personal detective badge to display their hard work
