About the Hotel

History

Michael V. Roberts, Sr.
Hotelier

The Roberts Riverwalk Hotel, formerly the Parke-Davis Research Laboratory and also known as Building 55-Detroit Research, is located along the international coast of the majestic Detroit River. The building was designated a National Historic Landmark in 1976 and recognized on the National Register of Historic Places. The former research facility was converted into a 106-room boutique hotel in the late 1980s & renovated in 2014. The hotel was acquired by business mogul and hotelier, Michael V. Roberts, Sr. in 2010 and now boasts more than 12, 000 sq. ft. of event space.
